

All of us have a unique story to tell. We have invaluable life experiences. We have treasured memories – the building blocks that give us substance and make us alive. We have experienced change – the birth of child, the death of a loved one, or the founding of our town, the rise of our organisations and the development or destruction of our communities.

We delve into our past to recall significant episodes and occasions; our emotions are stirred at the sight of old photographs stuffed into boxes, copies of birth, death and marriage certificates, bundles of old love letters tied tightly with ribbon, postcards from overseas, mementos and souvenirs, locked diaries and hidden keepsakes. We have achieved many great things; others we might wish we had done better or differently. We have been an inspiration and have touched the lives of others. We may have caused lasting social change. Our memories bring us happiness and joy; others cause us suffering and pain. We all have a past. We all want to have a future.

These things are important. They should not be lost.

How can we help? We can help you to preserve your important history for your family, friends or society. We can help you to record and document the development, change and achievements of your company or organisation. We can help you write the biography of a distinguished community member. In fact, we can help you with all aspects of self-publishing and can help you transform your manuscript (or your memories) into a high-quality book that your friends, families and colleagues will want to read. So why not publish your family history? Why not publish a book of that poetry that has been in your bottom drawer for years? Or turn that business idea into a book that will help convey it with authority?

Who are we? Publish-me is an Australian self-publishing company offering you access to a team of experienced publishing professionals, designers and editors, who will help you with all aspects of publishing your book, from editing, typesetting, cover design, internal layout and printing. We will work with you every step of the way to ensure that your finished product does justice to your work.

What are the benefits of working with Publish-me?

- You get professional services and guaranteed quality every step of the way
- You get access to a team of experienced book publishers and industry professionals, including writers, editors and designers
- You get all the revenues for the sale of your book, not just a royalty
- You retain the copyright
- You get to take advantage of our unique 'imprint' offer
- You can publish your book quickly, in low-risk small quantity options
- You retain control of your book at all times

Where to from here?

Whether you want to publish your book for your family, your organisation, or purely for your own satisfaction, call Publish-me on 02 9362 8441

We welcome your call to discuss how Publish-me can help you.